2010 SEAMEO Jasper Research Award Information Note

Theme: "Early Childhood Care and Education (ECCE) in Southeast Asia"

Thematic Strands:

- Promoting children's rights to education and early childhood care and education;
- Improving access to early childhood care and education, especially for the vulnerable and disadvantaged children;
- Appreciating cultural diversity in the provision of ECCE services;
- Improving quality of ECCE services; and
- Improving regulating mechanism and standard-setting framework;

The SEAMEO Jasper Research Award was established in 1990 with the support of the Government of Canada as a way of recognizing exemplary research conducted in the region by Southeast Asian nationals. The yearly Award aims to encourage young scholars to conduct researches on a relevant theme on social development in Southeast Asia and to facilitate continued interaction and knowledge-sharing among Southeast Asian and Canadian researchers.

The Theme for the 2010 Research Award Competition emphasizes the role that Early Childhood Care and Education (ECCE) plays in realizing the Education For All Goals and the Millennium Development Goals. The Dakar Framework for Action in 2000 reaffirmed the importance of early childhood by including the development of early childhood care and education as the first of its six main goals. Participating countries committed themselves to "expanding and improving comprehensive early childhood care and education, especially for the most vulnerable and disadvantaged children."

Early Childhood Care and Education programmes cover nutrition, health, carly child care and pre-school education. These programmes aim to provide children's holistic development and assist their transition to formal schooling. The greatest difficulty faced by countries in their efforts to expand and improve the quality of early childhood care and education is the mobilisation of resources. This is particularly evident in developing countries where early childhood care and education may be overshadowed by other pressing priorities.

Generally, the ECCE workforce is made up of pre-school teachers, care workers, informal care-takers and other professionals. Adequate training and work conditions are essential for them to integrate the content and practice of early childhood care and education and address the transition to formal schooling. The service setting and physical infrastructure may vary greatly from country to country.

In many countries including those in Southeast Asia, early childhood care and education is the concern of several government agencies, particularly those in charge of education, social welfare and health. The multi-faceted nature of early childhood care and education gives rise to the challenge of effectively coordinating provision of policy development and implementation across different sectors. Coordination issues include coherent regulation, funding and staffing schemes for children's care and education. Effective coordination, thus, remains one of the major challenges facing governments of both developed and developing countries trying to promote a holistic approach to early childhood.

Early childhood care education is considered important in inclusive education and in accelerating the on-going education reforms in many countries. The early childhood care and education in Southeast Asia is even more important in a regional landscape with different development levels and cultural diversities to integrate and interface early learning with the formal basic education.

The 2010 Research Award recognizes the research that explores concepts, models and practical experiences on early childhood care and education in an individual Southeast Asian country or in the region. Researches might cover one or more thematic strands, including promoting children's rights and improving their access to early childhood care and education, especially for the vulnerable and disadvantaged children; appreciating cultural diversity in ECCE service provision; improving the quality of ECCE services; and improving regulating mechanism and standard setting framework of early childhood care and education.

The researches may include traditional and innovative models, best practices in early learning provision, non-traditional and innovative delivery modalities, materials, assessment methods as well as documented practices and cases of effective interventions in the formal and non-formal education streams.

The 2010 Research Award

The 2010 Award winner will be notified by the SEAMEO Secretariat and will be presented a Plaque of Recognition during the 46th SEAMEO Council Conference, scheduled in January 2011 in Brunei Darussalam.

The winner also receives a travel fellowship to disseminate results of the winning research in relevant Canadian training and research institutions. The
