Dr. Corazon Rubio
Superintendent
Division of Quezon City

Dear Coy,

I am sending you the details of the Conference on Towards Integrative Coaching, Counseling, and Mentoring that UA&P organized for the public and private high schools. We hope that the 30 principals who attended the consultative forum last August 15-16 at Payatas can send at least 2 representatives from their school. This could be an opportunity for them to get exposed to our university's vision/mission and consequently to our culture. We would be happy if you, Beth, and Rowena can attend it! Here goes the details...

The University of Asia and the Pacific commits itself to the personalized education and holistic formation of its students not only through its academic programs but through a vigorous university-wide mentoring program. This pioneer mentoring program seeks to strengthen the foundations for each student's life-long growth in character through regularly scheduled private conversations with his mentor.

As an essential component of the University's vision, the UA&P further commits itself to sharing its knowledge and experiences in imparting integral education vis-à-vis coaching, counseling, and mentoring through a national mentoring conference entitled: Shaping Young Minds and Hearts (Towards Integrative Coaching, Counseling, and Mentoring). The conference will feature foundational themes as well as particular issues related to the interplay among the domains of coaching, counseling, and mentoring. In particular, the conference aims to:

1. communicate to public and private high schools the role of coaching, counseling, and mentoring in the learners' integral education;
2. establish the relationship of mentoring vis-à-vis teaching and other school services such as coaching and counseling; and
3. guide the participants in crafting an action plan in carrying out the basic tenets learned in the conference.

We are requesting the Department's endorsement of the National Mentoring Conference to be held on 13 to 14 September 2012 at the University of Asia and the Pacific, Pasig City. Your endorsement will facilitate the participation of secondary school personnel in this undertaking.

We have attached the conference details in the succeeding pages. Should you need further details, you may contact Mr. James Lactao at 637-0912 loc. 304 or at james.lactao@uap.asia.

Thank you very much.

Respectfully yours,

DR. SEVERINA M. VILLEGAS
Mentoring Consultant, UA&P
