The 11th National Cooperative Summit

The timing of the 11th National Cooperative Summit is especially auspicious for the cooperative movement, not only for the country but also internationally. The year is a cause for celebration as the United Nations declared "2012", the International Year of Cooperatives (IYC). The declaration is an affirmation of world leaders of the role and contribution of the sector in socio-economic development of nations and in improving the lives of its people, especially of the poor and marginalized.

In recognition thereof, this year's Summit adopted and localized the international theme of the IYC "Cooperative Enterprises Build a Better Philippines". The theme is also consistent with the National IYC's – "Transformative Cooperatives for People, Planet, Prosperity and Peace".

Cooperatives in the country for over five decades have been tapped to provide and enhance the livelihood of the poor – small farmers, fisher folk, workers and urban poor. But cooperatives have been more successful in providing for the providential needs of its members through credit. This year's summit as the theme suggest, focuses on cooperatives as a strategy in building integrated community enterprises that support members' livelihood and promotes members' productivity and entrepreneurship.

The 10th Summit set the tone and strategic direction towards this end. The 11th Summit intends to put more meat on what has already been agreed upon on operational terms and addresses related challenges to integration and consolidation of production and marketing of cooperative product and services.

Cooperative Regional Conferences shall be conducted to ensure the participation of the cooperators per region and engage each and every stakeholder in shaping the future of the cooperative movement. The outputs of these regional conferences shall form part of the 11th National Cooperative Summit Agreement.
