DR. LUZ S. ALMEDA

Office of the Regional Director
National Capital Region (NCR)
DEPED-Bureau of Secondary Education
Misamis St., Bago Bantay, Quezon City

Dear Dr. Almeda,

The Bureau of Fisheries and Aquatic Resources (BFAR) has recently launched two youth-oriented contests in the hope that these will promote awareness on endangered and threatened aquatic species in our country and eventually, spring active efforts on conservation and protection with the youth sector as the main pillar of action.

The essay-writing competition titled "Angry Fish! Heeding the Call for the Conservation and Protection of the Endangered and Threatened Fish Species" is open to all enrolled public and private high school students across the country.

Our agency appreciated the acceptance by the DEPED-BSED to collaborate with us on this undertaking. In fact, the details of the competition had already been uploaded in your official website. A copy of the letter is also attached for your perusal.

The BFAR regional offices will be contacting their counterparts nationwide to effectively disseminate the information. However, as we do not have an NCR counterpart, the Information and Public Relations Group (IPRG) of the head office will be coordinating with your office instead.

We will highly appreciate your assistance in encouraging the participation of our NCR schools in the said competition. We had readied some IEC materials for distribution for the said purpose.

Sincerely,

ATTY. ASIS G. PEREZ
Director

BFAR ESSAY-WRITING COMPETITION

The Bureau of Fisheries and Aquatic Resources (BFAR) launched the youth-oriented Essay-Writing Competition with the theme "Angry Fish! Heeding the Call for the Conservation, and Protection of the Endangered and Threatened Fish Species."

The competition aims to:

1. promote awareness on endangered and threatened aquatic species in the country; and
2. encourage active efforts on conservation and protection with the youth sector as the main pillar of action.

The competition is open to all enrolled students from both public and private secondary schools across the country. It has two levels: regional-to select the top three (3) entries that will compete for the national grand awards. Thus, at the regional level, the BFAR regional officers in collaboration with the DepEd regional counterpart would be working hand in hand.
